JEFFERY BARRETT: FIRST VTP GRADUATE

On March 31, former U.S. Army Sergeant Jeffery Barrett became the first candidate to formally graduate from Bancroft Capital's Veteran Training Program. Mr. Barrett, who was part of the inaugural class of candidates in January 2019, will permanently join Bancroft as part of the fixed income sales team.

"This opportunity has truly been life-changing," said Barrett. "My family and I are humbled to have earned a full-time role with Bancroft, and I look forward to continuing my growth and development in the finance world."

A 20-year Philadelphia public school teacher, Mr. Barrett was medically retired from the Army Reserves as a service-disabled veteran in December 2018.

IN FACE OF COVID-19, BANCROFT HOLDS WATCH

With fears and concerns surrounding the coronavirus gripping the nation - and the financial marketplace - Bancroft has utilized both the vast industry experience of the sales and trading team and the skills and leadership forged through military service of our veterans to continue servicing our customer base in this difficult and volatile period.

"The needs of our clients remain our primary focus as a firm," said CEO Cal Quinn. "We have implemented our disaster recovery plan to ensure the health and well-being of our employees and their families, and we remain at our post, ready and able to support our customers."

Additionally, Bancroft recognizes and thanks all who continue to serve on the front lines in battling the virus and preserving public health and safety during these trying times.
